

Presentation Skills

This course is about how to prepare and deliver scientific presentations professionally

Every speaker should be aware of his or her performances' impression. This course conveys you rhetorical possibilities, which you can use to present your topic comprehensibly and memorably, e. g. at university or at conferences. Determining are signals of body language, voice management and verbal manner of expression. Theoretical topics are also about content structure and the application of visual aids. In addition you have the chance to practise all different skills and you will receive distinct feedback to improve your performance.

Contents:

- The speaker's effect (body language, voice management and verbal expression)
- Structure of a speech
- Guidelines for designing and using visual aids (in particular PPT)
- Video feedback

Language:	English
Max. number of participants:	12
Duration:	9:00 – 17:00